Eleventh Sunday in Ordinary Time

He said to her, "Your sins are forgiven." The others at table said to themselves, "Who is this who even forgives sins?" But he said to the woman, "Your faith has saved you; go in peace."

Weekly Reflections

Vacations, Pilgrimages, and Working Vacations

As most you, my parishioners know, I do travel quite often. In a typical year, I like to go to the US Virgin Islands to see Fr. Neil; in the summer, I go on the youth mission trip, and in August or fall, I attempt to go to see my mom in Western Colorado. Then, there is the Southwest Liturgical Conference and Workshop that I try to participate in at least every other year. In other years when I go on a major trip, like the one to Europe in April, I skip the yearly visit to the islands.

I am grateful to travel, whether it is a pilgrimage, vacation, or working vacation. In reality, I have only been on two true pilgrimages, one in 2001 to El Salvador and Guatemala, and the recent journey to Western Europe. During my Central American trip, a group of about twenty priests visited significant sights of martyred priests, nuns, and Archbishop Oscar Romero. One of the highlights of that trip was celebrating Mass at the chapel and altar where he was shot to death. We also visited his tomb below the Cathedral in San Salvador. As for my trip to Portugal, Spain, and France, I plan to write about that pilgrimage later this summer; moreover, I plan to share about my trip one evening in the fall.

There has seldom been a year that I have not gone out to Grand Junction for a week's visit and vacation. It is one of the few times when I am away from the parishes that I don't celebrate Mass and am able to sit in the pew with my mom. I enjoy listening to different priests preach a homily. Of course, I naturally have a tendency to analyze the homily, but only with my mom. This year I will be going to Colorado during the first full week of September.

Tomorrow, I leave for Charleston, SC for eight days to attend one of the Alive in You Work Camps and offer my priestly services. I firmly believe in the work that Jim and Heather Weir are doing in the ministry they provide for our youth. After the week is over, I will drive to Milledgeville, GA for one day to see and tour Andalusia Farm, the adult home of Flannery O'Connor.

Then I will return home for five days before flying to our own youth mission trip with Alive in You, which is in New Orleans. We have twenty-five youth and five chaperones going this year. As in the past, I will take a couple days of vacation once the work camp is done and head about an hour southwest of New Orleans. I will be going to Thibodaux for one purpose, to see and tour Saint Genevieve Catholic Church. A few years back, I read a book called The Miracle of St. Genevieve by Woody Falgoux. I have shared this book with several parishioners. Since reading the book, I have been interested in visiting the church and its parishioners. Like the trip to Charleston, this too will be a working vacation.

After I return from Louisiana, I will be able to enjoy our Minnesota Summer until heading to mom's.

Have a good summer's week, Father Shane
